Review of the Internal Revenue Service's Purchase Card Violations Report

Report Number: 2022-10-047

HIGHLIGHTS: Review of the Internal Revenue Service's Purchase Card Violations Report

Final Audit Report issued on July 27, 2022

Report Number 2022-10-047

Why TIGTA Did This Audit

This audit was initiated because the Government Charge Card Abuse Prevention Act of 2012 (Charge Card Act), signed into law on October 5, 2012, requires each agency with more than $10 million in annual purchase card spending to submit semiannual reports of employee purchase card violations and the disposition of those violations, including any disciplinary actions taken. These semiannual reports (Purchase Card Violations Reports) are prepared by the agency head, e.g., the Department of the Treasury, and reviewed by the Inspectors General prior to the agency submitting the report to the Office of Management and Budget. The overall objective of this review was to assess whether the IRS complied with the Charge Card Act requirements for the period October 1, 2021, through March 31, 2022.

Impact on Tax Administration

Federal audits of agency charge card programs have found varying degrees of fraud, waste, and abuse. The Charge Card Act requires Executive Branch agencies to establish and maintain safeguards and internal controls for Government charge card programs. Additionally, inappropriate use of Government charge cards does not promote economic and efficient use of publically funded resources.

What TIGTA Found

Our review of the IRS's purchase card program found that controls are generally effective, and the number of purchase card violations identified by the IRS Credit Card Services Branch were minimal and generally for nominal amounts.

For the period of October 1, 2021, through March 31, 2022, the IRS identified six instances of confirmed purchase card violations totaling $13,261. There were two instances in which the purchase cardholder exceeded the single transaction purchase limit, two split purchases, and two prohibited purchases in which the cardholder did not have the proper authority to purchase the specific item. In response to the violations, the employees received disciplinary and nondisciplinary actions ranging from no action to formal admonishment.

Summary of IRS Purchase Card Violations

	Type	Number	Dollar Value
	Prohibited Purchase	2	$201
	Split Purchase	2	$5,925
	Purchase Exceeds the Single Transaction Limit	2	$7,135

Background

Government purchase cards are a cost-effective and streamlined means for making payments, and the Federal Acquisition Regulation has designated the purchase card as the preferred method to purchase and pay for goods and services up to the micro-purchase limits.<sup>1</sup> On October 5, 2012, the President signed the Government Charge Card Abuse Prevention Act of 2012 (Charge Card Act) into law to reinforce Administration efforts to prevent fraud, waste, and abuse of Governmentwide charge card programs.<sup>2</sup> The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) provides oversight of Government charge card programs and issued guidance in September 2013 to establish minimum requirements and best practices for Government charge card programs. These minimum requirements and best practices may be supplemented by individual agency policies and procedures. In August 2019, the OMB revised its guidance contained in Circular A-123, Appendix B, to consolidate the Governmentwide charge card program management requirements and guidance issued by various agencies.<sup>3</sup> The updates to the OMB guidance provided additional details and definitions for implementation in agencies' charge card programs.

Requirements of the Charge Card Act

The Charge Card Act established additional reporting and audit requirements for oversight of the Government charge card program. For example, it required at a minimum:

- Agencies to compile reports of purchase card violations.
- The establishment and maintenance of safeguards and internal controls.
- Inspector General risk assessments and audits.

Each agency with more than $10 million in annual purchase card spending is required to submit to the OMB semiannual reports (October 1 through March 31 and April 1 through September 30) of employee purchase or integrated card violations and the disposition of those violations, including any disciplinary actions taken. These semiannual reports (Purchase Card Violations Reports) are prepared by the agency head, reviewed by the Inspectors General, and then submitted to the OMB no more than 120 days after the end of the reporting periods.<sup>4</sup>

Agencies do not have to report on administrative or internal control process inconsistencies that do not result in confirmed fraud, loss to the Government, or misappropriation of funds or assets (whether or not recouped) in their semiannual violations reports. However, the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration (TIGTA) comments on all purchase card noncompliance

<sup>1</sup> See Appendix III for a glossary of terms. The micro-purchase threshold for supplies or services is $10,000. As of March 17, 2020, the micro-purchase limit was increased to $20,000 for supplies or services related to the Coronavirus Disease 2019 pandemic.

<sup>4</sup> As a bureau of the Department of the Treasury, the Internal Revenue Service is required to abide by the Charge Card Act and report charge card violations.

identified by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) in its semiannual review of purchase card violations reporting. TIGTA also reviews its Office of Investigations Criminal Results Management System to identify potential instances of purchase card misuse that may not have been directly identified by the IRS.

Federal audits of agency charge card programs have found varying degrees of fraud, waste, and abuse. The Charge Card Act requires agencies to establish and maintain safeguards and internal controls over charge card programs. Each agency head is required to annually certify that appropriate policies and controls are in place or that corrective actions have been taken to mitigate the risk of fraud and inappropriate charge card practices. This certification is reported as part of the existing annual assurance statement under the Federal Managers' Financial Integrity Act of 1982.<sup>5</sup> In addition, each agency is required to develop, issue, and maintain written policies and procedures for the appropriate use of charge cards that are consistent with OMB guidance.

The Charge Card Act also provides for additional oversight by requiring the Inspectors General to conduct periodic risk assessments of purchase cards, including convenience checks, combined integrated cards, and travel card programs, to analyze the risks of illegal, improper, and erroneous purchases. Beginning in Fiscal Year 2014, the Inspectors General were also required to annually report to the Director, OMB, by January 31, on the agency's progress in implementing prior audit recommendations related to purchase and travel cards.<sup>6</sup> This progress is compiled and sent to Congress and to the Comptroller General of the Government Accountability Office.

IRS roles and responsibilities for administering the purchase card program

Within the IRS, the Office of Procurement is responsible for providing policy guidance for the purchase card program as it relates to acquisition regulations. The Credit Card Services (CCS) Branch within the Office of the Chief Financial Officer is responsible for providing oversight for the purchase card program and convenience checks. The CCS Branch's responsibilities include overseeing the IRS purchase card program, issuing program guidance, and overseeing periodic program reviews. In addition, the CCS Branch is responsible for tracking and reporting instances of alleged inappropriate purchase card use and compiling the Purchase Card Violations Report for submission to the OMB.<sup>7</sup>

The CCS Branch evaluates compliance with purchase card operating guidance to detect and deter noncompliance with purchase card policy and procedures. According to the IRS, these evaluations include reviews of:

- Merchant categories and names to ensure that purchases are not made from restricted vendors.
- Itemized transaction details reported to the Government credit card contractor by certain merchants to determine if the charge was allowable.

<sup>6</sup> TIGTA issued its most recent report to comply with this requirement of the Act on January 26, 2022. TIGTA, Report No. 2022-10-017, Review of the Internal Revenue Service's Purchase Card Violations Report and the Status of Recommendations (Jan. 2022).

<sup>7</sup> The process promotes appropriate use of both purchase cards and convenience checks.

- Random samples of purchase card charges to assess compliance with purchase card regulations, including the split purchase policy.
- Convenience checks issued by convenience check cardholders to assess compliance with purchase card regulations.

The Labor Employee Relations and Negotiations function (hereafter referred to as Labor Relations) is the IRS office responsible for advising and supporting managers on employee disciplinary matters, with the exception of such matters committed by employees of the Office of Chief Counsel. Once an alleged instance of purchase card misuse is referred by the CCS Branch, Labor Relations assists the responsible manager by providing procedural advice and guidance in determining whether disciplinary action is appropriate.<sup>8</sup> Although Office of Chief Counsel employee purchase card misuse may be identified by the CCS Branch, the Office of Chief Counsel is responsible for researching and applying disciplinary actions for those employees as well as tracking the disciplinary actions in its own database.

Results of Review

Implementation of and Compliance With the Government Charge Card Abuse Prevention Act of 2012

The IRS stated that, between October 1, 2021, and March 31, 2022, the IRS's purchase card program included approximately 2,000 purchase cardholders. These cardholders made 15,496 purchases totaling more than $6 million with their purchase cards. Additionally, 15 convenience checks totaling more than $7,000 were written. Our review of the IRS's purchase card program found that controls are generally effective, and the number of purchase card violations identified by the CCS Branch were minimal and generally for nominal amounts. However, we also found that purchase cardholders continue to make unauthorized purchases.

Semiannual report on IRS purchase card violations and actions taken by management in response

We reviewed the violations and related supporting documentation that the IRS identified for the Purchase Card Violations Report. The IRS identified six instances of confirmed purchase card violations for the period of October 1, 2021, through March 31, 2022. The six confirmed purchase card violations collectively totaled $13,261 and included two instances in which the purchase cardholder exceeded the single transaction limit, two split purchases, and two prohibited purchases in which the cardholder did not have the proper authority to purchase the specific item.<sup>9</sup> Figure 1 summarizes the types and amounts of IRS purchase card violations.

<sup>8</sup> Purchase card violations are recorded in the Automated Labor and Employee Relations Tracking System, except for IRS Office of Chief Counsel which is recorded separately.

<sup>9</sup> Split purchases are a way in which a cardholder can exceed the single transaction limit by splitting the total amount of a single purchase into two or more transactions which are under the limit.

	Prohibited Purchase	2	$201
	Split Purchase	2	$5,925
	Purchase Exceeds the Single Transaction Limit	2	$7,135

With respect to personnel actions taken by IRS management in response to the six confirmed violations, there were four instances of written counseling, one instance of a formal admonishment letter to the employee, and one instance of no action taken. The IRS's internal guidance provides a range of disciplinary and nondisciplinary actions, from no action to suspension, which can be applied for each purchase card policy violation or inappropriate use.<sup>10</sup> Further, the IRS penalty guide provides a range of penalties, from a five-day suspension for a first offense up to removal for a third offense. However, according to IRS policy, use of the penalty guide is not mandatory, and the ultimate decision lies with management.<sup>11</sup> Figure 2 summarizes the disciplinary actions taken by IRS management in response to the six confirmed violations.

Additionally, the CCS Branch identified two cases of potential credit card violations totaling approximately $3,000 that occurred during the period of October 1, 2021, through March 31, 2022, and are still pending adjudication by management. We also reviewed information provided by TIGTA's Office of Investigations Criminal Results Management System on purchase card misuse cases and complaints occurring during the review period. There were no purchase card misuse or internal fraud cases that were reported by TIGTA's Office of Investigations involving IRS employees.

Purchase cardholders continue to make unauthorized purchases

The CCS Branch also identified 12 purchase card transactions totaling approximately $3,000 that did not comply with IRS internal administrative policies and procedures, but were not reportable to the OMB. The OMB requires that only certain inappropriate purchase card transactions be reported in the Purchase Card Violations Report. Reportable inappropriate transactions are those indicating that abuse, internal fraud, or misuse has occurred (for example, purchase card transactions that violated the Federal Acquisition Regulation or similar guidance). The OMB excludes from its reporting requirements administrative discrepancies, such as actions that violate operational policies or procedures but do not violate Federal law or regulation. The 12 transactions were instances in which the cardholder failed to obtain documentation of funding approval before making the purchase as required under IRS policy; however, the funding was later confirmed and approved.

Status of the Department of the Treasury Charge Card Management Plan

The Department of the Treasury issued a revised version of the Treasury Charge Card Management Plan on March 24, 2022. The revision included three significant updates to the Fiscal Year 2019 plan. First, it included new requirements for cardholders and vendors in response to the John S. McCain National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2019,<sup>12</sup> which requires vendors to complete a representation form prior to the cardholder completing an open market purchase. Cardholders are required to maintain copies of the vendor certifications and/or any exceptions granted by the bureau Chief Information Office. The IRS electronic purchase card guide includes these requirements, and the IRS CCS Branch monitors all purchase card transactions to identify instances of noncompliance.

Additionally, the revision included changes involving environmental, health, and safety requirements in accordance with Department of the Treasury acquisition procedures. IRS cardholders are required to obtain Facilities Management and Security Services review and approval prior to purchasing information technology hardware, machinery, or chemical products, including hand sanitizer. TIGTA found that the IRS included these requirements in its electronic purchase guide and monitors for noncompliance on a monthly basis. Finally, the Fiscal Year 2022 Plan includes requirements for designation of cardholders to support Federal emergency/national disaster response. As of June 2022, the IRS designated 44 employees and assigned increased spending limits in response to the Coronavirus Disease 2019 pandemic.

Detailed Objective, Scope, and Methodology

The overall objective of this review was to assess whether the IRS complied with the Charge Card Act requirements for the period October 1, 2021, through March 31, 2022. To accomplish our objective, we:

- Determined the methodology and process the IRS uses to determine a confirmed violation.
- Reviewed alleged purchase card (and convenience check) violations by IRS employees and identified the actions the IRS had taken as a result of these violations.
- Determined whether the IRS is correctly following the process to determine confirmed violations by conducting interviews with key officials within the CCS Branch, Office of Chief Counsel, and Labor Relations to identify their process and the documentation they obtained to reach a determination as to whether suspicious purchase card transactions are confirmed to be reportable violations.
- Determined the total number of confirmed violations involving misuse of a purchase card for the specified period based on the data contained in the ALERTS, the Criminal Results Management System, the Office of Chief Counsel Credit Card database, and the CCS Branch Inappropriate Use Referral Log. We determined whether those violations constituted: 1) abuse,<sup>1</sup> 2) internal fraud,<sup>2</sup> or 3) misuse.<sup>3</sup>
- Determined the number of adverse personnel actions taken in response to each reportable violation involving misuse of a purchase card for the specified period using the ALERTS. Further, we determined whether the actions involved: 1) demotions, 2) reprimands, 3) suspensions, 4) removals, or 5) any other adverse or administrative personnel actions.
- Reviewed the Fiscal Year 2022 Charge Card Management Plan issued by the Department of the Treasury and determined there were material revisions that required changes to IRS processes in identifying and reporting purchase card violations.

<sup>1</sup> Intentional use of a Government purchase, travel, fleet, or integrated charge card in violation of the Federal Acquisition Regulation, Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement, Agency Supplements, or Government Purchase Card policies/procedures. Evidence of intentionality shall be inferred from repeat offenses of the same violation, following administrative and/or disciplinary action taken for this violation.

<sup>2</sup> Any felonious act of corruption or attempt to cheat the Government or corrupt the Government's agents by Government Purchase Charge Card Program officials. Use of a Government purchase, travel, fleet, or integrated charge card to transact business that is not sanctioned, not authorized, not in one's official Government capacity, not for the purpose for which the card was issued, or not as part of official Government business.

<sup>3</sup> Unintentional use of a Government purchase, travel, fleet, or integrated charge card in violation of the Federal Acquisition Regulation, Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement, Federal Travel Regulations, Agency Supplements, or Agency Policies/Procedures. These actions are the result of ignorance or carelessness, lacking intent, to include honest mistakes.

Performance of This Review

This review was performed with information obtained from offices of the Chief Financial Officer and CCS Branch management and staff located in Washington, D.C.; Jacksonville, Florida; Cincinnati, Ohio; Richmond, Virginia; and Beckley, West Virginia. We also conducted fieldwork or obtained information from the Office of Chief Counsel located in Washington, D.C., and the Human Capital Office – Office of Human Relation Strategy located in Atlanta, Georgia, during the period March through June 2022. We conducted this performance audit in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objective. We believe that the evidence obtained provides a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objective.

Major contributors to the report were Bryce Kisler, Acting Assistant Inspector General for Audit (Management Services and Exempt Organizations); LaToya P. George, Director; Seth A. Siegel, Audit Manager, and Paige K. Krivda, Lead Auditor.

Validity and Reliability of Data From Computer-Based Systems

We performed tests to assess the reliability of data from the ALERTS. We evaluated the data by 1) performing electronic testing of required data elements, 2) reviewing existing information about the data and the system that produced them, and 3) interviewing agency officials knowledgeable about the data. We determined that the data were sufficiently reliable for purposes of this report.

Internal Controls Methodology

Internal controls relate to management's plans, methods, and procedures used to meet their mission, goals, and objectives. Internal controls include the processes and procedures for planning, organizing, directing, and controlling program operations. They include the systems for measuring, reporting, and monitoring program performance. We determined that the following internal controls were relevant to our audit objective: IRS internal policies and procedures and other guidance pertaining to purchase cards and convenience checks, and CCS Branch inappropriate use logs and supporting documentation of IRS monitoring of the purchase card program. We evaluated these controls by reviewing the IRS's methodology for reporting confirmed and pending violations in the Purchase Card Violations Report as well as analyzing the CCS Branch's inappropriate use logs (including the Office of Chief Counsel, as applicable), the ALERTS, and the Criminal Results Management System. We also reviewed IRS policies and procedures related to the Charge Card Act.

Appendix III

Glossary of Terms

Term	Definition
Admonishment	The lowest level of formal disciplinary action in the administrative process. It consists of a two-step process: 1) the manager has a discussion with the employee to advise them that they have engaged in misconduct and that they should not repeat the misconduct; and 2) the manager confirms the discussion with a written summary in a letter.
Convenience Check	Checks written against a purchase card account. Convenience checks are a payment and procurement tool intended only for use with merchants that do not accept purchase cards and for other authorized purposes where charge cards are not accepted.
Fiscal Year	Any yearly accounting period, regardless of its relationship to a calendar year. The Federal Government's fiscal year begins on October 1 and ends on September 30.
Integrated Card	A combination of two or more business lines in a single card, e.g. , purchase and travel.
Micro-Purchase	An acquisition of supplies or services using simplified acquisition procedures, the aggregate amount of which does not exceed the micro-purchase threshold of $10,000.
Nondisciplinary Action	Used in situations where the misconduct is not serious or recurring. Oral or written counseling, or cautionary notices are often used. According to IRS policy, managers should impose the least serious personnel action sufficient to correct the problem with penalties imposed at an escalating level for subsequent offenses.
