

U.S. International Trade Commission

Management Report - IPERA Determination

OIG-MR-15-10

May 13, 2015

Office of Inspector General

The U.S. International Trade Commission is an independent, nonpartisan, quasi-judicial federal agency that provides trade expertise to both the legislative and executive branches of government, determines the impact of imports on U.S. industries, and directs actions against certain unfair trade practices, such as patent, trademark, and copyright infringement. USITC analysts and economists investigate and publish reports on U.S. industries and the global trends that affect them. The agency also maintains and publishes the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States.

Chairman Broadbent:

Pursuant to section 3 of the Improper Payments Elimination and Recovery Act (IPERA), I have reviewed the U.S. International Trade Commission's IPERA documentation and determined that the Commission is in compliance with the law.

Even though the Commission is not subject to IPERA, it voluntarily seeks to comply with most of its requirements.

Should you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Philip M. Heneghan
Inspector General

"Thacher's Calculating Instrument" developed by Edwin Thacher in the late 1870s. It is a cylindrical, rotating slide rule able to quickly perform complex mathematical calculations involving roots and powers quickly. The instrument was used by architects, engineers, and actuaries as a measuring device.
